ETHICS LEARNING PROGRAMME 2014

This version of the ethics learning programme is for reference only. Students must complete the online version, accessible via their dashboard, icaew.com/dashboard.

Welcome

Welcome to the ICAEW Ethics Learning Programme. The programme covers the ICAEW Code of Ethics, which is based on the International Ethics Standards Board for Accountant's (IESBA) Code of Ethics.

It is important that ACA students, and hopefully future members of ICAEW, understand and can apply the principles of the ICAEW Code of Ethics throughout their professional life.

It is therefore a requirement of ICAEW membership that students successfully complete the ethics learning programme and the online assessment.

Learning modules

The programme is split into six modules which you can work through as many times as you wish. It is recommended that you study the learning programme in conjunction with your ACA examination studies and the ethics webinars which are located in your training file.

01. Introduction to the ICAEW Code of Ethics SCORM package

02. The Fundamental Ethical Principles SCORM package

03. Threats and Safeguards to the Fundamental Ethical Principles SCORM package

04. Conflicts of interest SCORM package

05. Considerations for Professional Accountants in Practice SCORM package

06. Considerations for Professional Accountants in Business SCORM package

Ethics assessment

On completion of the ICAEW Ethics Learning Programme, discuss with your employer what you have learnt before attempting the online assessment. It is a requirement of ICAEW membership that students successfully complete the online assessment, which they can access via their dashboard, icaew.com/dashboard.
